A Client may, under the provision of paragraph 2, letter f) hereof contact any employee of the Company to submit a complaint. If a complaint was communicated by a Client to such employee by phone, then the employee is obliged to offer a Client a possibility to file his/her complaint individually – following paragraph 2, letter a), b), c), d), e) or during a call with a Client – however, this procedure requires to be given a Client's consent the complaint can be recorded based on the information submitted by a Client. In this case, the time-limit to resolve the complaint is interrupted, till the additional information are delivered by a Client to Company head office. If a Client does not send the information requested within 30 calendar days from the date on which the request to complete the complaint was received, the complaint is rejected due to its incompleteness.

However, a Client is always lodging the complaint on his/her own and on his/her behalf, eventually under legal or contractual representation. The mandate granted to a representative shall be demonstrated by the power of attorney in writing, whereas the signatures affixed are not required to be verified officially. With the reference to one matter a Client is allowed to have only one attorney. If the procedure stated above and referring to the subject-matter of the complaint is not relevant and effective, the Company may determine another procedure.

3. Complaint acceptance and handling

Following the delivery of Client's complaint, the Company sends to a Client the confirmation of receipt, and a Client is familiarized with Company Complaint Resolution Procedure.

A time-limit for handling the complaint is 30 calendar days from the receipt of the complaint by the Company.

The Company reserves the right to require from a client, without undue delay, to complete his/her complaint, which is aimed to resolve the complaint successfully. In this event, the time-limit for handling the complaint is interrupted or suspended till the complaint is completed by a Client and received by the Company.

The suspension of the time-limit is applicable when the completed information has not any material effect to the complaint resolution result, which means the time-limit for handling the complaint is stopped till the complaint is completed.

The interruption of the time-limit is applicable when the complaint cannot be resolved unless being completed (which is without doing this impossible or ineffective). In the event of the interruption, the new time-limit runs after the completion of specific complaint.

However, if a Client does not send to the Company information requested within 30 calendar days from the date on which the request to complete the complaint was received, the complaint is rejected due to its incompleteness.

4. Information to a Client of the result of his/her complaint resolution

Within the period of 30 calendar day from the receipt of the complaint a Client shall be informed of the result of his/her complaint resolution. If the day falls on weekend or a public holiday, then the lime-limit ends on the following working day.

The end of the lime-limit means the day when the investigation results are forwarded to a Client. The decision on complaint, including the reasoning and investigation results, shall be send to a Client by registered mail, a message delivered to his/her data box or by e-mail to the address recorded as Client's contact e-mail address.

In case of a registered mail, the relevant date referring to the compliance with a time-limit means the date stated on post office stamp, in case of e-mail and data box messages the relevant date means the date of message sending.

Where the complaint cannot be handled in the relevant time-limit, the Company is obliged at least to inform a Client of the reasons why his/her complaint could not be resolved in a timely manner, and inform about further procedure including the additional period to handle the complaint, if possible.

5. Lodging the appeal

If a Client is not satisfied with the complaint result, then, in accordance with the procedure defined in paragraph 2 hereof, he/she may lodge the appeal within 30 days from the date on which a Client received the decision. If a Client states in his/her complaint new facts or claims, then it shall not be regarded as an appeal, but as the supplement to the original complaint, whereas the time-limit to resolve it starts to run again from the date when it was delivered to BC.

The date when the decision on complaint is considered delivered to a Client means:

- a) In case of the decision sent by registered mail to Client's address stated in written complaint, this is the date of receipt by a Client. If a Client has not taken over the letter, then it is considered received at the latest on the 15th day from the day when it was delivered to a Client without success, under the previous sentence,
- b) In case of the decision sent electronically to the e-mail address recorded by the Company as Client's contact e-mail, it is the date of the proof of receipt sent by a Client, however, at the latest the 10th calendar day after the sending,
- c) In case of a data box message, the moment when a person logs successfully in specific data box using the data box information system, i.e. a person authorized to access such data box and subject-matter document. In the event when a person authorized has not logged in the data box information system within the period of 10 days, the message is understood as delivered by the 10th day after being delivered to the data box of the addressee.

The Ethical Committee provides the Company Board of Directors or Supervisory Board with the recommendation to the Client's appeal. Subsequently, the matter shall be decided by the Company Board of Directors. The decision on resulting solution of the complaint has been sent to a Client similarly as stated above in paragraph 3, i.e. within 30 calendar days from the day on which an appeal was received by the Company.
